a report to Congress on December 18, 189, covering the points mentioned in the resolution. The report was accompanied by reports from Gen. John M. Wilson, Chief of Engineers, United States Army, and a report, with maps of the surveys, by Lieut. Col. Charles J. Allen, Corps of Engineers. These reports estimated the cost of the reclamation of the Potomac Flats, from the mouth of the Anacostia fliver to the Navy Tard Bridge, and from that point to the Benning Bridge at $2.194.70, and the reports suggested that the sum of $100,000 annually could be judiciously expended under the proposed plan.

The District Commissioners, in their annual report for the year ended June 39, 190, made the following statement with reference to the subject:

"While the Improvement of the Anacostia River is wholly under the control of the General Government, the Commissioners down it only fair to the people of the Bistrict to state that they regard this proposed improvement as one of the highest impostance to the best interests of the National Capital.
